Washington News. Washington, June 27.—President Johnson, in reply to Governor English, said that everybody in Counceticut and elsewhere knew what my views are in reference to the first principles of the government. My acts are before the country, and my past course must suffice as to what will be my further conduct.

The Pennsylvania Republican Convention nominated Henry W. Williams for Supreme Judge. Their resolutions demand guarantees for the vanquished, which will render treason odious and forever impossible; applaud Lincoln, denounce President Johnson's failure to gather up and fix President Johnson's failure to gather up and in organic laws the principles which were settled by the war, without which peace is a snare; condemn Johnson, his pliant, atterney-general, and the majority of his cabinet; applaud Sheridan and Sickles; expect that Grant will vindicate his past record by sustaining them; characterize Davis' release as a reproach to the administration and an invente 4the layer people of the nation. insuit to the loyal people of the nation.

June is with us, the old beautiful June, and not a leaf of her foliage, not a breath of her air, recalls the blood-stained fields, the burned cities, the mad frenzy on which other June sunshines looked in the unhappy past. We are not on the rack, though torn and bleeding from the wrench. We know that the shipe freighted with our richest ventures want down yonder in the crimson west, and though we watch sunset after sunset, they will never come back to us save in dreams. But then we know as well that other vessels are to be freighted, other ventures made, and, Anteus like, it is best to draw strength and encouragement freighted, other ventures made, and, Anteus has it is best to draw strength and encouragement from the wisdom that nature is not slow to teach. This transition month, between the inconstances of spring and the passionate fervor of July, has always been a favorite with those who watch the seasons in their ceaseless round—

The footpaths through woodland thickets, and by river banks grow like shining white bands beneath the light and heat. Were we writing a botanical article we could tell of the "orchidaceous" plants that we find near them, the rosacea tribe now in its full flush and glory, the convolvulous, binding all the undergrowth in a tangle of pinx, white, blue and purple bells; but we are not writing out June's lessons in their details, but in their broad suggestive significance. The same sunshine and breeze that fills the flowers with color, and sends the sap coursing through their delicate pulpy veins, is working in our fields the eternal miracle of the marriage feast at Cana in Galilee. The pure lymph ascends into bearded ears of corn, into rustling cane-fields, and the little brown and yellow seeds of March will load the granaries of September. In June we can judge of the crops for the fall (caterpillars omitted), and this June is full of promise.

Floods have swept over us, and winter lingered until he not only outstayed his welcome, but was called hard names, and driven ignominiously forth by intolerant summer. But he is gone, and we remember him no more, save to wonder if he will not be compelled to hurry amazingly through the rest of his course, in time to return here in November.

But June is with us, and in spite of late frosts rest of his course, in time to return here in normber.

But June is with us, and in spite of late frosts and later floods, we feel assured she will do her best in the eternal doctrine of compensation. We make our obeisance, and pray heartily "that her shadow may never grow less." Were we a poet we would write her praises, like the "Codex Argenteus" in liquid silver, on violet colored vellum; but alss! verse with us would be an overage de longue haleine. But listen; through the still morning air comes to us a tiny voice we know right well. You are right, cicada—quite right, for

"The poetry of earth is never dead,
When all the birds are faint with the lot sun,
And hide in cooling trees, a voice will run
From hedge to hedge about the new mown mead.
That is the grasshopper's—he takes the lead in summer luxury—he has never done
With his delights, for, when tired out with fun,
He rests at ease beneath some pleasant weed,
The poetry of earth is ceasing never."

Equity Court.—The Court of Equity for this District, began on Monday last, Chancellor Lessene presiding. The business before the Court, up to this writing, has not elicited general interest, but from a few hasty visits, we are inclined to think that matters are progressing in a satisfactory man-ner. His Honor is courteous and dignified, and the solicitors are prompt and watchful over their clients' interest. Further than this, deponent sayeth not, as he is unable to explain much that is going on. All the spectators with whom we have sayoth not, as he is mindle to explain much that is going on. All the spectators with whom we have conversed, are in the same category. It's a good Court, nevertheless, so-called.

Among the legal fraternity from other Districts, we have observed Gov. Perry, of Greenville; Gen. McGowan, Major Burt, Col. Thompson and Edward Noble, of Abbeville; Major Adams, of Pickens.—Anderson Intelligencer.

ens.—Anderson Intelligencer.

The Late Rains.—From our exchanges in this and adjoining States, we learn that the recent rains have been general, and have caused great damage. On Monday and Tuesday of last week, in this section, the heaviest rains descended, doing much injury to the growing crops. Since then we have had more or less rain every day, and the work on the farms is much retarded in consequence. In Atlanta, Georgia, the rain on Monday night was heavier than has been known for years. Bridges, culverts and embankments, were washed away, some houses were inundated, and a number of gardens were destroyed. In North Carolina the rain was quite as severe, and serious danger of gardens were destroyed. In Note to Catomate the rain was quite as severe, and serious danger is apprehended to the growing crops. In the lower portion of the State planters report that the heavy and incess int rains of the last week have materially injure! cotton. There is no doubt as to the extent of these rains, and we fear that in many instances the damage is irreparable.—Ibid. many instances the damage is irreparable.—10th.

DEATH OF AN EMPLOYEE.—We are pained to record the death of a most excellent youth, Master Wm. Elkins, who has been in the Phænix office since it was established. He was a faithful, quiet, and well-disposed young man, and has been cut off just as he was prepared to enter upon a useful career in his profession. He died from that insidious disease consumption, in the seventeenth year of his age. He is lamented by all his young commades in the office.—Phænix.

The weather up to Monday night was terrible—on Saturday afternoon we had quite a gale. Sunday we had rain all day and Monday. Tuesday morning came in with a cloudless sky. We fear great damage has been done the wheat by the deluge lately descended—Chester Standard.

deluge lately descended—Unester Standard.

THE WEATHER AND CROPS.—Since our last, rain has fallen in superabundance, in fact during the whole week, and during Saturday ard Sunday to such an extent as to injure to some extent the crops. But few farmers have been able to gather their wheat in consequence of the continued rain, but we have heard of no harm as yet arising from such long exposure. Should the weather now clear up we trust no considerable damage may be sustained.—Newberry Herald. ned.—Newberry Herald.

An ALABM.—The slarm which prevailed in town An Alarm.—The slarm which prevailed in town on Sunday and Monday morning, that owing to the heavy rains the Broad River Bridge had been carried away, was happily allayed on the arrival of the passenger train from Columbia in due time, which reported no damage whatever, and the river not alarmingly high. Persons in the country who may not yet have heard the report contradicted, will learn with satisfaction that we have been spared this public calamity.—Ibid.

ARREST.—An arrest was made here by the military, on Friday last, of two persons, one registering from Canada and the other from New Yorkthe latter formerly of this State, and who, we are glad to say, was almost immediately after liberated, there being no charge against him, more than the arrest fact of baying been found in than the unfortunate fact of having been found in company with the former, who is still in custody. What the charge is, is unknown; the arrest was made on a dispatch from headquarters below.

Look our for His.—About four weeks ago, a man who gave his name as Williams, about six feet high, fair skin, blue eyes, front teeth riding each other and projecting, pleasant spoken, and his left arm off below the elbow, was loitering about the farms of Mr. John Simpson and J. M. Barnett. On the same night Simpson's horse was stolen, and some jewelry, pocketbook, &c. from Mr. Barnett. Last Friday he appeared in the village again, passing down the road leading an ox Believing him to be the man who committed the above theft, measures were taken to have him arrested. The fellow took the alarm, and before a warrant could be obtained he made his escape, leaving the ox behind. The ox, which doubtless was stolen, can be found at the residence of Mr. J. M. Barnett,—Spardan.

RAIN! RAIN! AND NO MAILS.—We have had such weather as the oldest inhabitant can scarcely find in the chronicles of the past. Such a fall of water in the month of June beggars all description. We began to think a young deluge was upon us, and we sighed for the reappearance of old Sol in all his glory. Since our last issue it has rained almost incessantly. On Friday it commenced to blow from the cast, and on Saturday we had a gale from the northeast, east and southeast, that rivalled September. The roaring of the wind furiously driving the rain in torrents before it, breaking down limbs of trees, and uprooting others, made us forget that we had approached the summer solstice. The clouds began to disperse on Sunday, and we have felt more happy and contented since, except that as a consequence of this warring of the elements, we have been both bound by land and water, for the mails have been effectually cut off by the washing up of bridges, bad roads, swellen rivers, et ad omne genus; and our devil has been sadly in want of copy. We have not as yet heard what damage has been done to the crops, and would be glad if our friends would give us information in this particular. As the rain appears to have been general, we presume a freshet in the rivers is almost a certainty, which will be very detrimental to planters, who are furthest from the seaboard. For the information of our readers, who are curious to know the quantity of water fallen, we give place to the subjoined communication from our friend, Rev. A. Glennie:

The amount of rain that fell during Friday night and Saturday, was 3.62 inches.

The amount which fell between Tuesday, the 18th, and Saturday, the 22d, was 6.81 inches.—George-town Times. in the chronicles of the past. Such a fall of water and Saturday, the 22d, was 6.31 inches Georgia Items.

THE WHEAT CROP.—The Washington, (Wilkes county), Gazette says: "We are sorry to learn, from several parties, of considerable falling off in the yield of the wheat from what was expected. The the yield of the wheat from what was expected. The decrease has been small in some cases, and very great in others. In one neighborhood where some twelve or fifteen crops have been cleaned during this week, the yield has been only from five to seven for one, or about half what was expected. Everywhere there seems to be some disappointment of this kind. It is attributed to the effect of contract which has done more harm than was supported. rust, which has done more harm than was sup

FIGHT BETWEEN FREEDMEN.—A letter dated Louisville, Ga., June 25th, informs us that an altercation took place that afternoon, on the plantation of Mr. Overstreet, about four miles from that place, between Abram Spann and Henry Clements, (both colored,) which resulted in the latter's receiving a mortal wound in the right side from a shot gun.

Spann has not been arrested yet, but our informant understands he said he would give himself up. The particulars and cause of the difficulty is not known.

Spann is the delegate elect to the Atlanta Convention, and is quite an influential individual among the freedmen of this county. Some little excitement exists in the community on account of the murder.—Augusta Chronicle. ANOTHER HOMICIDE.—Joe Reeves and Austin Baily were engaged in hosing corn on the evening of the 19th inst., upon the farm of John Duggan, Esq. They had some dispute in reference to their work. Baily struck at Reeves with his hoe, but failed to hit him, whereupon Reeves struck Baily with his hoe, killing him almost instantly. They were brothers-in-law. Reeves, we understand, has been committed to jail.

(Central Georgian THE CROPS.—Never have we seen the crops in this portion of our State, says the Sandersville Georgian, as promising as at the present. Our farmers used large quantities of guano and other manures, which are now telling most admirably upon the growing crops. The late seasonable showers of rain have caused the corn and cotton to almost, if not quite, double its size in the last two weeks. It is almost impossible now, while viewing the verdant fields, to realize that we are in Middle Georgia, they so much resemble the productive Georgia, they so much resemble the productive valleys and fertile prairies of the West. In the midst of our political sorrows, we must not forget to raise our grateful hearts to the Giver of all our

AFTER three days of gloomy, rainy weather, old Sol made his appearance, much to the gratifica-tion of the denizens of this lower world. Much damage has been done the crops on the bottoms, and apprehension is felt for the wheat; but if it should continue dry for a few days, most of it will be saved. The crop is unprecedented in this section, and soon there will be a supply of new flour in the market. Already have a few bags made their appearance. Let the prices come down—the sooner the better.—Chariotle (N. C.) Times.

Put the ice into a deep dish, cover it with a plate, and place the dish on a pillow stuffed with feathers, and cover the top with another pillow carefully, by this means excluding the external air. Feathers are well known non-conductors of heat, and in consequence the ice is preserved from melting. Dr. Schwartz states that he has thus preserved six pounds of ice for eight days.

If, after this report, the time is to be extended, please notify me, and it will be done. I would do it at once, but the President's telegram was conditional, and there is sufficient time left to issue the necessary order.

A French Voice on Female Suffrage. LEON GOYLAN, the celebrated French novelist died very suddenly a few months ago. On the last day of his life he commenced writing an article or female suffrage, which was found unfinished on his table after his death. This fragment contains the following characteristic passages:

"The National Assembly was right in closing against the women the doors of the clubs, where the yould have inevitably lost the remnants of gracefulness which still distinguish them from the lords of creation. For some time to come it will be yet a good thing that there are two sexes; at a later time we shall see. Until then let us respect customs and traditions, and among them the custom which demands that women should give birth to children, and should endure the annoyance of bringing them up.

"We have in former times likewise deplored the misfortunes of women in society; we have likewise demanded their emancipation in more than one book. But by our side so many books have arisen in favor of the licention mess of women, that we have hastened to lay down our pen. When we proposed to break their chains, others proposed to untie their girdles. And what is the worst, we do not know exactly whether or not they are chained, following characteristic passages:

not know exactly whether or not they are chained, while it is evident that they wear a girdle.

"There are a great many rich men in our Legislative body. Suppose women should be elected members of the Chamber, would it not be possible that these nabobs should bribe the fair deputies Registration in Georgia.

Washington, June 27.—The steamship North America is ashore at the south point of Anticosla. The passengers and crew are safe. The species and baggage have been landed, and the cargo has been thrown overboard. The captain hopes to the court of the past surging the strength of the past of the late of the late of the past of the late of the past of the late of the each of the weather, the season "And then you may be sure that physiological parties would be organized by the side of the exclusively political parties; the party of the old ladies in the chamber and that of the young ladies; the party of the widows and that of the married women; then the political colors would be complicated by the color of the hair; there would be the blonde party, the brunette party, the chesnut party, the lean constitutional party, the fat republican party. God forbid that this invasion should overwhelm France! She would thereby lose her last virtue.

"Imagine, further, that Marseilles, celebrated for her cooks and her flower-girls, should send distinguished representatives of both classes to the Legislative body, and that the old aristocratic Finisterre department should elect some of her proud mar-hionesses and duchesses? These ladies would scratch out each other's eyes; they would fight; they— "And then you may be sure that be the eternal contrast of man, that man may be charmed by the difference, attracted by his curi-osity, and instigated by his desires. From the osity, and instigated by his desires. From the day when women will wear pantaloons and paletots population will no longer increase.

"The National Assembly comprehended sagely that it would be an anomaly to allow women to be members of clubs, and not to allow them to become members of the Chambers. If one gave them the right of making insurrections, it would be strange not to confer the right of suppressing them. And a Chamber with representatives of both sexes would be a queer thing. Curious influences would be brought to bear on the members—the influence of the eyes, of the toilet, of pouting, the influence of the hands meeting in the ba lot-box, &c., without speaking of the dark passages of the Palais-Bourbon, and the sombre old alleys in the adjoining park, where the ladies and gentlemen of the Chamber would happen to meet so often!

"And when they would be at the Chamber and visitors, and nurse the children? Perhaps, the husbands.

"Women who are not yet devoid of sense, this quality which becomes so very rare in France, women of mind whom bad books have not yet degraded, women of heart who have not yet allowed the chasto fire of the love of family life to become extinct in your bosom,—of the family, the first society created by God and destined to remain the last of any on earth, women of all classes who still smile at the smile of your beloved husband, and weep with your sick children, you who enhance all our joys and diminish all our pains by your sole presence at our domestic hearth, go and thank the National Assembly for the honor it conferred upon you by closing the doors of the clubs against you. Never was an affront worthier, never was an insult more sublime. The box on the ear, made of you grandees and Queens, as the box on the ear, which the Popes gave formerly to the Kings of Germany, made them Emperors.

HEAD'ORS FIFTH MILITARY DISTRICT, J NEW OBLEANS, LA., June 22, 1867.

GENERAL—I am in receipt of a telegram from the President, through Brevet Major Gen. E. D. Townsend, A. A. G., U. S. Army, directing me to extend the registration in this city and State, until August 1st, unless I have some good reasons to the contrary, and ordering me to report such reasons, for his information. Also, stating that in his judgment this extension is necessary to a full and fair registration, and that the time should be thus extended, because the other District Commanders for his information. Also, stating that in his judgment this extension is necessary to a full and fair registration, and that the time should be thus extended, because the other District Commanders will not get through before that time.

My reasons for closing the registration in this city were because I had given the city two and a half months, and there were no more to register. I have given the State two and a half months, and registration will be exhausted by that time.

I did not feel warranted in keeping up boards of registration, at large expense, to suit new issues coming in at the eleventh hour.

The registration will be completed in Louisiana at the time specified, unless I am ordered to carry out the law under Mr. Stanbery's interpretation, which practically, in registration, is opening a broad macadamized road for perjury and fraud to travel on. I do not see why my registration should be dependent on the time when other district commanders get through. I have given more time for the registration in Louisiana than they propose to give in their commands, for I com-
